DISTRICT ATTORNEY SWART

WHO is trying to "get" Frank Swart? The stories appearing from time to time would make it appear that the district attorney has trod heavily upon some strong political interest, who to cover its own forked tail is stirring up a great cloud of smoke. Reform meetings held in other parts of the county would lead to the conclusion that what is wanted is not reform but the furthering of the ends of some political aspirant at present under cover.

The district attorney is elected to help in the enforcement of the law. Yet the political howlers who seek "reform" demand that he do what the law would give him no sanction in doing—the arrest of certain people for whose arrest no grounds can be named.

During his time in office District Attorney Franklin Swart has run the office in a clean, upright manner and above reproach. We can see in the ranks of his opponents some who do the most to hamper the district attorney in his efforts to bring about law-enforcement. Men who because they are themselves breakers of the law, are antagonistic toward the district attorney who has done much for its enforcement.

In District Attorney Swart, San Mateo county has a just and upright official, a fearless prosecutor and a Christian gentleman, stories of his defying the churches, notwithstanding. Political mud slinging has become so much a matter of tradition, that it has little weight at this day, yet when so skillfully worked that large numbers of uninformed and honest people are made the tools of a few unscrupulous interests, and we believe that Swart's antagonists can be divided into these two classes, there is something to fear.

Political intrigue, like the squid, knows how to throw out a dense cloud in which its true form cannot be seen until its tentacles swing out to seize its prey. It must be the duty of those who desire clean and above-board government, to brush aside this cloud and see the facts for themselves, judge for themselves, and credit nothing that their own common sense shows to be absurd.

SENDING DOLLARS AWAY

IN discussing the question of trading at home or abroad, C. F. Waite, editor of the San Pedro (Calif.) Daily Pilot, aptly points out the advantage of buying from the merchants of the home town. Speaking of this he remarks:

"As an example of the loss that comes from buying out of town, let us cite the case of the bread we eat. It has been estimated that San Pedro grocers send out of town for bread about $500,000 a year. This bread, baked by nonresident bakers and delivered by nonresident driver, is sold to dealers at the same price asked for good home-made bread. In this case the economic loss is plain, for only 55 per cent. of the cost of manufacture of bread goes for labor and materials, no matter where it is baked. The balance goes for overhead expense, delivery cost, profit, etc. Thus 45 per cent of the money spent for foreign-baked bread in San Pedro is lost, so far as this community is concerned, to "the advancement of society," for, quoting Dr. Hoover's own argument, "it tends to reduce the volume of goods and service resulting from it." Even if the consumers had to pay a little higher price in the retail trade, which they do not when they buy home-made bread, it would be good business to do so and save this $225,000 annual loss to the community."

What is true of San Pedro is true of Redwood City, and what is true of bread is true of every other line of commodity. As we have remarked before, money spent here helps your neighbor in his business, helps to increase the value of his land, helps to pay the taxes and helps to build up your town. Money spent out of town as far as conditions here are concerned, is gone.

A GOOD PLAN

THE matter of placing all purchasing for the city in the hands of some competent official who will act as a purchasing agent for all city departments has received considerable comment from the board of trustees of this city. It is a plan which should effect a decided saving to the taxpayers of the town.

At present, according to the statements of the various trustees, the buying by the city is a haphazard proposition. Nobody is responsible for the purchases and everybody buys what they think they need, wherever they want. The same conditions existed formerly in the county government, and great sums are now saved annually by the judicious buying of the county purchasing agent. It has well been said that "what is everybody's business, is nobody's business." This is true of city as well as in other lines. We believe that the idea of the trustees to have the purchasing of all city supplies placed in the hands of some competent person is a good one and one which should be put into practice.

HIS OWN BUSINESS

WE have seen comment ad nauseam concerning the ideas of Luther Burbank on the possibility of a future life. Burbank has established an enviable reputation as an authority on plants, and where plant life is concerned he speaks with the voice of authority. In other lines, however, we do not see that Burbank's ideas are any more poignant than those of any other person. Burbank, if he chooses may believe that there is no future life. He is entitled to believe that if he desires, and to hold to that belief without interference from other individuals or organizations and without criticism. What Burbank says in regard to plant life effects the thought of the world, what he says about a future life effects himself only.

HORTICULTURAL COMMISSION URGES POTATOE PRODUCTION

Urging that the farmers of this county develop the seed potato industry here, A. W. Tate, county horticultural commissioner of San Mateo county, this week filed his monthly report with the board of supervisors. This report is as follows:

The State Department of Agriculture would like to see the potato growers of this section and other counties where the climate is favorable, take an interest in the development of a seed potato industry and is ready to aid them in their production problems and assist in finding a market for the stock is produced. There is always a market for good seed especially certified seed.

Three to four hundred cars of seed potatoes are shipped into this state annually and most of this stock has to bear heavy freight rates so good seed produced locally should find a ready sale. We have another advantage over some other counties in that the soil here has not as yet given us any trouble.

Any one interested in the growing of seed potatoes is advised to consult the commissioner and an effort will be made to have a potato specialist visit the county and give information as to the regulations governing certified seed, the best varieties for the location, and the location of foundation stocks suitable for certification.

California's reputation has already been done but there are a number of orchards remaining to be treated. These should receive attention as soon as possible as the indications are that most fruit trees will commence their growth earlier than usual and after the buds open full strength sprays cannot be used.

Peach trees affected with leaf curl should be sprayed during February. A total of 570 shipments of 58,770 plants were inspected during the month. Of these 499 shipments of 35,430 plants were from California points and 71 shipments of 23,340 plants were from outside the state. Six citrus trees were returned to the shipper for violation of the quarantine which forbid the importation into this state of citrus trees from all states except Arizona. 7,951 trees and plants, found infected with various insect pests on arrival, were treated and delivered to the consignees. Advice in regard to spraying and other problems have been given to 117 individuals during the month.

Respectfully submitted,
A. W. TATE, Jr.,
Horticultural Commissioner.

MOTOR TOURISTS SPEND FOUR MILLION DOLLARS HERE

More than four million dollars were expended in northern and central California during 1925 by automobile tourists served by the California State Automobile Association, according to a statement issued this week by George S. Grant, head of the touring bureau of the California State Automobile Association.

"We issued approximately 35,000 permits to visitors from other states as required by state law," said Grant, "and, of course, this does not take into account the permits issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California or other agencies."

"We have the right to assume that the average expenditure of a motor tourist party is around $100 and, on this basis, the money left by tourists that applied to us for permits will run close to four million dollars. The figure for the whole state would probably be six or seven millions or even more."

"Thus is California reaping a benefit from her wonderful system of good roads. Not only do these tourists make a direct return in money expended for living while here, but they are good boosters for California when they return to their homes and many of them afterwards return here to live."

Local Man Knew London as a Boy

Jack London, now deceased, was in his time one of the most widely read of the recent American authors, and his works were a contribution of a virile style of fiction which has greatly affected the prevailing type of American writings. In this connection it is interesting to know that A. W. Tate of this city, county horticultural commissioner, was a boyhood friend of this great writer, and at a time long prior to his becoming known to the literary world, prophesied a great future for his friend.

The following article was written by Mr. Tate in 1895 when London, then a boy of 19, was attending high school in Oakland. It appeared in the San Francisco Examiner of that time.

"Socialism is a subject which sooner or later must receive the attention of all peoples of the world, and although we Americans have heard so much about it, we have not heard all there is to be said, and what will be said in this question. Our statements give their attention to other matters, and have a little to say on socialism as possible, but the extraordinary number of people who are discussing this question will soon force it upon their attention."

"Socialists are regarded by the general public as people who, having nothing, want no one else to have anything; who are, as a rule, cut-throats, incendiaries, assassins or thieves, whose only aim is the overthrow and destruction of the established order of things."

"But, however the general public may regard socialists in general, there are some of them who do not wish to murder all the rich men and burn all the churches, but who are socialists because they think that by the average expenditure of a motor tourist party is around $100 and, on this basis, the money left by tourists that applied to us for permits will run close to four million dollars. The figure for the whole state would probably be six or seven millions or even more."

"Thus is California reaping a benefit from her wonderful system of good roads. Not only do these tourists make a direct return in money expended for living while here, but they are good boosters for California when they return to their homes and many of them afterwards return here to live."

Jack was born in San Francisco in January, 1876. He was a great admirer of Dickens, Cooper, Irving and Hawthorne, and as he grew older, became infatuated with the idea that he would have a glorious time riding the break-beam and seeing the places of which these authors wrote. At the age of fourteen he left home, and started to cross the continent on a break-beam.

"Riding in 'blind baggage cars,' empty freight, flat cars and clinging to side ladders, this young adventurer traveled over 12,500 miles by rail and 2,500 miles on the sea during the first six months, and, as he proudly observed, 'it didn't cost one cent.' He sailed on the great lakes and narrowly escaped being killed on a trestle in Canada, where his companion was killed by an engine. He returned to California and 'pirated oysters' in San Francisco bay. Jack was then employed by the Fish Commissioners to watch Chinese fishermen who were fishing without a license."

As a stowaway, young London next visited Japan, and on his return, signed on the Sophie Southerland, bound for the north on a sealing trip. This was his last trip. When he arrived in San Francisco, Jack decided that he needed an education, so he entered the Oakland High School, where he has been attending for the past year. He does well in his studies, and is considered "a fine fellow."

It was while tramping over the country that he became interested in socialism.

INTERLOCUTORY DECREE SOUGHT
Anna Berger has brought an action in the Superior court for an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Walter J. Berger, whom she married on July 8, 1923. The couple separated on January 22, 1926. Extreme cruelty is the ground on which the action is brought. Plaintiff asks for alimony in the sum of $100 a month. She alleges in her complaint that her husband earns $375 a month.

GRANTED FINAL DECREE
Judge Buck has granted a final decree of divorce to John H. Herzog from his wife, Olga Herzog. The interlocutory decree was granted on January 27, 1925, on the ground of extreme cruelty.

"HIS SECRETARY"

A CHARMING FILM

Hobart Henley believes that he has another picture that is as human and delightful as "The Gay Old Dog".

The picture that has always been the favorite of all he has ever directed.

"The Gay Old Dog" was produced several years ago, and though not at the time a great box-office success, Henley believes that if it had been produced now, it would have been a sensation.

However, he has in "His Secretary" the picture coming to the Sequoia Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 8 and 9, one of the most charming stories ever written by a plain stenographer.

plain merely because she doesn't realize her beauty. Norma Shearer plays the girl, and has given one of the most interesting portrayals of her career.

Her employers are played by Lew Cody and William Lons, as the law firm of Colman and Sloden. Other members of the cast are Mabel Van Buren, Karl Dane, Gwen Lee, Estelle Clark and Ernest Gillen.

The story was written by Carey Wilson, and adapted to the screen by Hope Loring and Louis B. Light.

Shearer's favorites. In "Lady of the Night," her work in the title role was commended by all the critics, and as the Swedish peasant girl in "The Tower of Lies," she had a role that offered unusual opportunities for characterization.

Norma has the most unusual role of her career in "His Secretary," the Hobart Henley production which is coming to the Sequoia Theatre as its attraction next Monday and Tuesday.

In the first few reels of the picture, she essays the role of a homely stenographer, and has employed such scenic makeup and costumes that all her beauty is concealed.

Even in the latter part of the picture, when she blossoms out as a butterfly, traces of the original character remain, though her appearance is in marked contrast to the homely girl of the first half of the picture.

FIELDS, FAVORITES

FAVORITE ROUTE

Although a score of excellent pictorial efforts have come to the screen describing the perils of crossing the vast Western plains, and Tuesday's program has even been filmed showing that a large majority of the seekers after gold in the California fields came to Sacramento by boat via the Horn.

Taking advantage of this fact, Frank Lloyd has pictured a single boat story of early California, "The Splendid Road," introducing the sea voyage from the East to the new country, and has also introduced for the first time the romance and adventure of a woman pioneer.

The "Splendid Road," which enjoyed extraordinary success as a novel and magazine serial, will appear at the Sequoia Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 10 and 11.

Transformed into a living story on the screen, it bids fair to make the standard for Western dramas.

In filming this colorful tale of "49" Mr. Lloyd has employed the technique which has made him famous as a producer-director. Instead of going into the technicalities of the California gold rush, he makes romance predominate.

"The Splendid Road" has to do with the struggles and success of Sandra DeHaut, who set out from Boston on the "Colonial Dame" to find fortune and happiness in the new country, whose popularity as Quince Courteau in Mr. Lloyd's "Winds of Chance" was marked, assumes the character of Sandra in "The Splendid Road" and featured with her are Robert Frazer and Lionel Barrymore's first National picture in over five years.

Included in the supporting cast are Edward Earle, Edwards Davis, Pauline Garon, Gladys Brockwell, Marceline Day, George Bancroft and Suzi Edwards.

The people of East Palo Alto will hold a big meeting of the citizens of that locality next Monday evening at the home of Mrs. B. DeFence on Sunday.

Boating on the White Oaks Sunday morning from the parlors of Layne & Tinney for Mrs. Catherine Merta, wife of Antonio J. Merta, a merchant of San Carlos, who passed away Tuesday in the Community hospital.

Mrs. Merta was ill only a few days, and her death is said to have been caused by pneumonia. Surviving the deceased are three young children.

Mrs. Merta was a native of San Francisco and was 39 years of age.

A mass was celebrated for the deceased woman at Mt. Carmel Catholic church at 9:30 Thursday morning, and was followed by interment in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.
